FIFTEENTH ANNUAL REPORT

OF THE

Trustees of Amherst Town Library.

In submitting the annual report the Trustees are pleased to report the books, building and property of the Town in good condition.

The trustees met April 21, and elected Rev. J. G. Davis, president; Mrs. W. D. Clark, secretary and treasurer; Mrs. Burnham was re-elected librarian and has completed her 22d year of valuable and uninterrupted service in this capacity.

The increased appropriation of the Town at its last annual meeting, has enabled your trustees to carry forward the work of the library, now so well commenced.

During the year sixty-eight volumes have been added to the library, sixty-three by purchase and five by donation, as follows:

Sketch of a Busy Life,
Grant as a Soldier and Statesman,      }
Geology and Mineralogy of New Hamp. } Edw. D. Boylston.

History 8th Regt. N. H. Vols.,      }
Dedication of Statue of John P. Hale, } State of N. H.

Among the valuable and costly additions to the shelves have been "Kugler's History of Art," and several works upon Architecture. The Cosmopolitan Magazine has been added to the list of monthly periodicals.

Two months during the summer, the library was opened three times during each week. This was an experiment. The trustees thinking the many visitors in town during these months might enjoy the use of the library. The result was somewhat disappointing, and the continuance of the plan of doubtful expediency.

A new fence has been erected upon the west side of the library lot, and the roof of the building re-painted. A sign in raised gilt letters has also been placed over the door. Chairs and a table have been purchased for the reading room and a lamp donated by Miss Myrick. From the proceeds of the sale of copies of "A Sketch of a Busy Life," generously donated by Dea. E. D. Boylston, the furnishing of the reading room will soon be completed.

The total issue of books for the year has been 2051, conveying pleasure and profit to eighty-six families.

In closing this report your trustees would say that the year has been free from any notable abuses. No books have been lost. We now have nearly three thousand volumes, the general character of which are of a high standard. Suggestions and recommendations from the patrons of the library are always welcomed by the trustees.

The large additions to the library and the multiplicity of supplements to the original catalogue, has led somewhat to confusion and annoyance. It is the unanimous opinion of your trustees that a new arrangement of the books should be made, and a new classified catalogue immediately printed. If the same appropriation is continued another year we are confident this can be accomplished, and will greatly increase the usefulness and value of the library as a public institution. The appropriation for 1893 was $250.00.

The organization of the Board is as follows:

REPORT
BOARD OF EDUCATION.

FOR THE YEAR ENDING MARCH 1, 1894.

ORGANIZATION.

At the school meeting held March 14, W. W. Sloan was re-elected a member of the School Board for a term of three years.

At the meeting of the Board held March 16, Rev. A. J. McGown was chosen President, W. W. Sloan was appointed Treasurer, S. E. Dodge, Secretary.

The supervision of Schools was divided among the members of the Board. W. W. Sloan was appointed to attend to furnishing supply of fuel and repairs.

REMARKS.

The last annual report of the Board of Education was largely an account of the studies pursued, and progress made in the several districts of the Town.

With the exception of a few changes the same studies have been pursued, and, on the whole, gratifying progress in them has been made. I think it can be truly said that in no year since the writer became a member of the Board has there been so much improvement in every direction as the year we are now reporting has shown. This is true of many of the schools at least, if not of all, and it speaks well for both the scholars and their instructors.

The discipline in some of the schools has greatly improved, and the interest of the scholars in their work has been materially increased.

The Board still has the conviction that a change of teachers, as a rule, is detrimental to the best results, and has changed them only as it was compelled to do so, by the teachers resigning of their own accord, or as it has seemed to it that the change could wisely be made. It is not always easy to find a suitable teacher for the vacancies which—as has been the case in several instances this year—unexpectedly occur and which must be promptly filled. There are teachers not a few, but the one that is wanted for a particular school is not always to be had. The Board is confident, however, that, considering all the circumstances, its choice of teachers has been fairly wise.

The High School, under the efficient management of Mr. Crooks, who was in charge during the fall and winter terms, has greatly improved. A careful, but by no means rigid, discipline has brought the scholars under good subjection, and has secured an attention to study which cannot be without marked effect. This school has been increased in numbers by scholars from other districts, who have proven a valuable accession. There is no longer any need for a boy or girl who desires a good English education to go out of town to secure it, for the privilege is open to him or her here, and as much in advance of this as from time to time shall seem to be demanded, for the way is open to add to the studies now pursued just as fast as any considerable number shall be prepared to take them.

The Primary School still retains its mixed condition. The best results will not be reached here until there shall be a closer grading, which at present does not seem to be expedient.

It is a mistaken notion that anybody can teach a primary school; for it demands a peculiar talent. Not one teacher in ten is adapted to it, and one has reason to congratulate herself who in this grade is successful. To be able to interest a score or more of children, unused as some of them are to school life, and to be the first to teach their "ideas to shoot," puts a draft upon a teacher's tact and talent to which she is nowhere else subjected.

To this grade Miss Keyes, who taught two terms, was particularly well adapted, and the Board accepted the resignation, which she handed in on account of physical disability, with great reluctance. Miss Holbrook, who has wrought well in other fields, undertook the work at the beginning of the winter term, and has carried it on successfully.

The district school is kindergarten, primary, intermediate and grammar school in one, as scholars of all ages and degrees of attainment are brought together here for instruction. The teacher must be an all-round person; at home as well with algebraic formulas as with the alphabet; able to direct the little child with untutored mind as well as the youth of maturer thought. It is to be feared that the teacher in the district school is not more than half appreciated. Surely her's is a trying position. How much the parents may help her if they will, by instructing their children to render a willing obedience to her commands, and by silencing and withholding criticism. It is not necessary, perhaps, to remark upon these schools one by one. Only two of them, No. 3 and No. 5, have enjoyed the same instructor throughout the year. On account of sickness in the neighborhood, the spring term at No. 6 was somewhat broken. All of these schools—with one exception, No. 2, which numbers a score or more—are small. No. 9 shows an increase in numbers. The small school is not without its advantages. Where the teacher is faithful she can give much attention to the few who look to her for instruction. The Board has been glad to note that the scholars in the smallest school have made remarkable advancement.

Nos. 4 and 7 have remained closed throughout the year. What the future will develop for them is uncertain. The Board has no desire to be arbitrary in the matter.

When the demand shall be such as to make it wise to open them, undoubtedly it will be done; though the hope is still cherished that the time will come when consolidation will be recognized as the wisest policy.

The expenditure for school supplies has not been large. At the beginning of the year a series of text books "on Physiology and Hygiene, with special reference to the Effects of Stimulants and Narcotics on the Human System for Use in Schools" was introduced. It is hoped that by a faithful use of these the children and youth will come not only to realize the importance of a proper care of their bodies, but will become rooted and grounded in the principles of temperance which has so much to do with their future enjoyment and usefulness.

During the summer vacation extensive repairs were made on the school house in No. 5, so that now the children who go to school here have as comfortable and pleasant a room as any of the others enjoy. The repairs necessitated a delay, and the fall term was somewhat shortened thereby. This may be made up from time to time by lengthening the other terms. All of the school houses are now in fairly good order, with the exception of that in No. 9. This can be greatly improved by the introduction of new furniture and a small outlay in the way of repairs. It will very likely receive this attention during the coming year.

It will be well, perhaps, to conclude this report with one or two general remarks.

THE TRUE IDEA OF EDUCATION.

It is not so much the number of studies the scholar has pursued, nor the number of pages in the text book he has been over that determines the educational progress which he has made, as it is how well he has done it; how much real mental discipline he has received from the effort. Education is not a pouring-in process, but the reverse. The root meaning of the word is "to lead out." As Webster remarks: "It implies not so much the communication of knowledge as the discipline of the intellect and the regulation of the heart." He who can best use the powers which God has given him is best educated, though he may not have the widest knowledge.

It would be well if the teacher would become thoroughly imbued with this idea of education.

It would greatly assist him in his efforts to secure the best results in his scholars and to adapt himself to their individual needs. And it would help the scholar, who is sometimes impatient to make advancement in the way of turning pages and who demurs at the introduction of certain exercises which are in every way calculated to accomplish the purpose for which he is applying himself. The scholar who shirks a declamation or a composition goes so far in defeating the very purpose for which schools were instituted.

THE IMPORTANCE OF A KNOWLEDGE OF ENGLISH.

Too much stress cannot be laid upon the importance of a thorough mastery of the English language. It is not a high recommendation of the present day training certainly, that so many of the graduates of our schools, and seminaries, and colleges even, are so deficient in the power to express themselves with voice and pen in their own language. A writer in The Nation, commenting upon a report of the Committee on Composition and Rhetoric to the Board of Overseers of Harvard College, says: "At Harvard, as the committee demonstrates, the unhappy instructors are confronted with immature thoughts, set down in a crabbed and slovenly hand, miserably expressed and wretchedly spelled, and yet the average age of admission is nineteen." Now, this does not speak well for the system pursued in the schools in which these young men prepared themselves. It is doubtful if the college, with its immense curriculum, succeeded in correcting these faults, which existed because they were not precluded by a thorough training in English in the lower schools. If a scholar can have a knowledge of but one language, and that is about all the great majority of the children in our schools can hope for, let it be a knowledge of his mother tongue. A person can get along in any department of life, can even distinguish himself in business life, or in any of the professions, without a knowledge of the alphabet of a foreign tongue, but he will do well in none of these callings if he is deficient in the language of his people. The Boston Herald gives indorsement to the importance of a good knowledge of English in these words: "It is really a rare thing to find young people at from fifteen to nineteen years of age who can write letters or spell words out of the common, or prepare a composition correctly. A typist is required to have a good education, and one who is a graduate of our grammar schools and has such a training is the exception and not the rule. It is also very difficult to find young men at the age that most youth enter college who can write a letter or a news paragraph correctly." There is only one way to remedy this palpable deficiency, and that is by encouraging more thoroughness in English, and insisting upon it in the common and preparatory schools.

ATTENDANCE.

The Selectmen in their census for 1893 found 174 children between the ages of five and fifteen years.

The whole number found upon the school register, who attended school the past year, also the daily average attendance, is shown by the following figures.

The number over fifteen years attending school was 20, 9 boys and 11 girls.

Schools.	Whole No.	Boys	Girls.	Av. At'd.	Terms.	Wks.
